THE EVIDENCE

A Six-Year Rise, Built on Distribution

Germany 3. Liga 2025/26 (20 matches) · club tracking data · SkillCorner Plus-Minus model

PRIMARY IDENTITY: THE BUILD-UP GOALKEEPER · Strong distributor · Comfortable under pressure · Progressive passer · Developing shot-stopper

FOUNDATION

- Six-year rating curve: ~30 (2019) → ~52 today
- Already above the league median rating band
- Four senior Bundesliga appearances for M'gladbach's first team
- A six-season track record, not a single-season outlier

SUPERPOWER

Short-pass accuracy (356/360) 99%

Long-pass accuracy (164/257) 64%

Long-pass volume: 257 attempts this season

NEXT DEVELOPMENT STEP

- Shot-stopping has developed more slowly than his distribution
- Save rate: 63 of 100 shots faced this season
- Goals prevented vs. expected: -3.6 (37 conceded vs. 33.4 xCG)

Development focus: already demonstrating Bundesliga-level build-up qualities. The next step is matching those with consistent shot-stopping output over a full season.

THE OPPORTUNITY

A Rising, Build-Up-Ready Goalkeeper. Available Now.

IDEAL FOR CLUBS THAT

- Build possession from the back through their goalkeeper
- Want a young #1 or clear backup with sustained development
- Value distribution range over pure shot-stopping volume
- Can offer a platform for continued senior minutes

MARKET INSIGHT

Goalkeepers out on loan in lower divisions are often judged by their current level rather than their trajectory. A six-year rating curve that keeps climbing is a far stronger signal than a single season's save count.

WHY NOW

Rising performance trend across six seasons

Four senior Bundesliga appearances already

Contract until 2027 — no urgency from the parent club

24 years old, entering a goalkeeper's prime

B360 ASSESSMENT

Jan Olschowsky is not just a shot-stopper working through a quiet loan season. His overall level has been rising for six years, and his distribution numbers — sustained high-volume short and long passing — already resemble a goalkeeper built for possession-based systems, not just a last line of defense.

THE ARGUMENT IN ONE SENTENCE

A low-risk opportunity to acquire a goalkeeper whose six-year performance trajectory and build-up quality are ahead of what a quiet loan-season save tally suggests.
